

July 15, 2010

Dear TAC Member,

We had a very successful Technology Advisory Council (TAC) meeting this summer in Hollywood, Florida in conjunction with the EEI Annual Convention. We had a lively discussion and also benefitted from the numerous critical issues sessions of the EEI Annual Convention.

It is now time to turn our attention toward the fall TAC meeting. We are once again co-locating our meeting with the Energy Central Knowledge Conference which will take place at the Fairmont Scottsdale Princess hotel in Scottsdale, Arizona November 8-10, 2010. The conference producers have arranged for the registration fee to be waived for AGA and EEI TAC members, in addition they are offering a limited number of complimentary packages (2 night's accommodation and travel) to the first 50 CIO's that register for the summit.

This fall we will enjoy a lively TAC roundtable discussion on topics of interest to participants. The Knowledge 2010 conference features a general session from executives of the local utilities: Arizona Public Service and Salt River Project, an industry analyst panel and others. This year the Knowledge Conference will be made available to Customer Service and Operations executives. Adding these other disciplines will broaden the focus of the conference and make our sessions richer.

As the 2010 AGA chair of TAC, it is my goal to encourage your attendance at this important event for all utility CIOs. Please take advantage of the offer of complimentary registration and join us for the content and the information sharing that occurs every time the TAC meets.

I look forward to seeing you at the Fall AGA / EEI TAC Meeting and Knowledge2010 Summit in Scottsdale!

Sincerely,

Rich Gius
Vice President & CIO, Atmos Energy Corporation
AGA TAC Chairman
